Know your numbers. Plan your next move.

Most money trouble isn't one big mistake. It's small things nobody was watching. Download Business Financial Foundations, a free workbook from Neha Banik, Head of CFO Services at Pilot. It shows you what to watch: four numbers, one weekly habit, and one 90-day plan.

The four numbers every owner should know

Baseline monthly cash needs

What does it cost to keep the lights on, even with zero sales?

Break-even

How much do I need to sell to stop losing money?

Zero-revenue cash runway

How long could I last if new money stopped coming in?

Effective hourly rate

Is the business paying me fairly for my time?

TRY ONE NOW: BREAK-EVEN

$18,000 ÷ 0.69 = $26,087

Take your fixed monthly costs and divide by your keep rate, the share of each sale left after variable costs. If materials and processing eat 31%, you keep 69%.

The Weekly 15

Same day, same time, every week. Three questions:

01 Cash on hand. What's in the bank today?

02 Owed to me. How much is unpaid, and how much is 30+ days late?

03 Due soon. What bills, payroll, and loans are due in two weeks?

Your 90-day plan

Insight doesn't change a business. Decisions do.

One lever
Grow revenue, keep more, or get paid faster

One target
A destination, not a direction

One date
90 days from today

One tripwire
The signal to stop and rethink
